

No Competing Financial Interests Certification

Alcohol Research: Current Reviews maintains that authors are accountable for the articles submitted to the journal and requires authors to certify there are no competing financial interests that might be construed as influencing the results or interpretation of a reported study. As stated in the Instructions for Authors, a competing financial interests may include, but are not limited to, grant support, employment (recent, present, or anticipated), payment for expert testimony, and personal financial interests by the authors, immediate family members, or institutional affiliations that may gain or lose financially through publication.

Corresponding authors are required to submit this certification of no competing financial interests form on behalf of all authors involved. Failure to disclose a competing financial interest could result in retraction of the article.

Authors certify they have no competing financial interests.

Signature

Date

Print Name